

In the eyes of the girl

It was a common weekend for the girl, she found herself doing everyday things when her parents decided to go to a tourist sport she had en her city.

The place being on top of a mountain, had many animals, and all the way up was fun, they joked and several species of animals together.

After seeing some of the attractions there, they finally decided to climb to the place they wanted so much.

On arriving, the little girl was enchanted by the sight of it, it was surprisingly wonderful, and as she admired that landscape, she realized how small the world was, and how small she was before him, she saw how beautiful the city could be, and how beautiful all nature was.

She spent a good amount of time observing that, and when she left, she know that despite all the bad things that happened, life was beautiful, and she loved it.
