

The sad story of Daniel

Once upon a time, an ugly boy who didn't have a lot of friends. He only had his parents, the dog and two best friends. The bad boys used to mess a lot with his face. He got used to it, because he was a cool guy. But his coolness was about to end on a P.E. class. Almost the whole school was making fun of him because he was awful at basketball. The problem was not the whole school neither the basketball, but because Jeniffer Lawron also laugh at him. It made him really pissed off. He is in love with her since always. After that, he went home and told his mom that a a change was about to happen. She tought it wasn't a big deal. Days passed and the P.E. class was going to be volleyball. The teacher made the students strech and when he gave the ball to them, it was love af first look. Daniel was in love with volleyball. On the other day, he went to talk to the men's volleyball coach. At first, the coach wasn't giving too much attention, but when he saw the boy playing he got really impressed. Obviously, not everytthing was perfect, but it was clearly that the boy was gifted.

The coach didn't tell him that he liked him, but he called Daniel to practice with the team. He started going once a week, but when the coach and the teammates started to see his evolution, the coach asked him to be part of the official school team and practice every day. Daniel got really excited and said yes. As the days were passing by, Daniel was showing competence. His first game was pretty soon and he went to tell his parents. His mother got super excited about it but his father didn't approve it at all. His father's approval was not a big deal to him. After telling his parents, he went to talk to his best friends. They got really excited about it and supported the idea. Daniel was almost the happiest person in the world if it wasn't because of Jennifer Lawron. He was really obsessed with her, since they were nine years-old. She was a nice girl but had a boyfriend that was the basketball captain, he does not deserve her. Daniel never had a chance to prove that he was the one for her... until his first game. He knew that Jennifer would be there so he did his best. It was worth it because they won.

While Jennifer was watching the game, she felt something wrong, An awkward feeling. As the season was going, Daniel was feeling great. He made a lot of friends in the team. It was his new family, or even better. His father had to accept the sport of his son and more than that, he started to cheer on his games. Everything was doing great until Daniel felt something on his chest. He was going to practice when he got out of breath . He sat on the sidewalk until he recovered. As he didn't feel nothing anymore, he practiced normally and did great. Days passed and he felt a need. A need to talk to Jennifer. It was out of nothing. Daniel took courage and told everything he was feeling. She got speechless and he told her that is okay that she dates and he didn't wanted to change this fact and left. Jennifer was confused. On the other day, Daniel woke up in the middle of the night out of breath again. He called out his parents and they took him to the hospital. After a lot of exams, Daniel got better in the time but the doctor asked for two more exams. Daniel passed the whole day at the hospital.

When the doctor told what was wrong with him, he didn't even make a move. The doctor also asked a series of other exams to be sure of what he was telling Daniel. After all of the exams, the doctor discovered that he was right and Daniel had a tumor on the left side of his heart. Daniel and his parents got shocked because there was a little hope inside of them that the doctor would be wrong. The first thing Daniel thought about was volleyball. His parents talked to the doctor in privacy and the doctor told them that his disease was really serious. His parents didn't know what to do. They told Daniel about his situation and he was more comprehensive than the parents, Daniel spent the night thinking about volleyball, Jennifer, his best friends... He was sad, but hopeful. As the news started to run in the school Jennifer was more confused than ever because she knew that she was feeling something to him. After two days at the hospital, Michael and James, his best friends, went to visit him. It was a funny day to Daniel, they made a lot of jokes, they updated Daniel about the school, Daniel complained about the food and they laughed a lot as everytime they were together. Daniel was getting weaker and lost his face hair and all of his hair. Jennifer was texting Daniel to know how he was. One day she could not handle her needs and to visit him. He was the happiest peson alive. Jennifer was treating him as a friend but she knew that she was in love with him. And the afraid of losing him was getting bigger. She went home, did everything she normally does and she realized that she needed to be with Daniel. So she went to talk to her boyfriend and broke up with him, after that she went running to the hospital to tell Daniel. When she got there, was too late, he had already passed away. She got really upset but it was a lesson learned. She realized that love does not wait and we can not wait until the last moment to tell or to feel the truth.
