

The Dream

In an afternoon, Violet and Melissa were in the car with their parents, going to his aunt's house, who lives on the beach.

They sang musics they liked, as "if i can't have you" and "ME!", and many others.

Violet felt so conected with the songs, who ended sleeping throught tiedeness and Melissa It was not late to felt the same.

They were both on the road, a long time ago, Violet started to felt something strange, if she is teleported to another place.

She don't know why this is happend, it was so bad. She felt like something was been beated, her vision was pessimist, but tears are falling in her face. The same was happend with Melissa, they felt the same.

Many thoughts have passed in their faces, their hands. And if the bodies are frozen? The sensation changed all the time.

It was something opposite and strange. The most of them bad, they really not well.

Violet remembered a song that calms her down (magic shop), and she just wanted to go to this place. A magic place.

Melissa suffered a lot of bullying in the school, never get well with their parents, because they never really cared about them.

Your grandma, the only person who cared with them had died about a year ago. The twins were so happy that day, their grandmother had finally made muffins, something they both loved very much.

To make matters worse, they had just eaten the muffins when their grandmother ends up dying. Yes, there was a killer. Only your parents did not believe.

The police that day, seeing the girls faces, end up believing them. But your parents still did not believe.

For months they've been blaming them, especially Melissa, for she's simply being older by seconds.

They said she was older, so she should have solved the situation. But speaking in this situation is easy, it would be difficult to do.

From that day on, things only got worse for them, but even so, the two of them gave their maximum.

Something mysteriously happened, and they began to see again. To be able to open your eyes again.

They were in a bed, strangely well, breathing, and with her grandmother at her side. They grandma is smiling, quiet and well. Before saying anything, Mel noted that the place was written "magic shop".

Lady Judith (their grandmother) smiled and said, - girls, you're dead, but now, we'll be together. I really love you, and I missed you.

and the girls smiled and thanked, after all at least they were with those they loved.