The Siberian Husky (Russian: сибирский хаски, "Siberian husky") is a medium-size, dense-coat working sled dog breed that originated in north-eastern Siberia. The breed belongs to the Spitz genetic family. It is recognisable by its thickly furred double coat, sickle tail, erect triangular ears, and distinctive marking.

They are strong, compact dogs and because of their dense coat, they can withstand temperatures as low as 58 degrees °F, that's why they prefer cool climates.

They are loving, gentle, playful, fond of their families, loyal, intelligent, keen, docile and trainable but in closed spaces this dog can become very agitated. Because of their lack of exercising, they need to exercise often to be healthy.

The Golden Retriever is a medium-sized breed of dog that came from Scotland. They were named retriever because of their ability to retrieve game undamaged. Golden Retrievers have an instinctive love of water. They have a dense inner coat that provides them with warmth, and a water repellent outer coat that lies flat against their bodies. They are very intelligent and loyal dogs, they are also friendly and kind. These dogs are very famous for their patience with kids.
