

Raças de cães

Por: Alan Camelo e Júlia Paixão

Pug

The origin of the Pug as a breed probably began in ancient China. Dogs known as "Short Mouthed dogs" or dogs' mouth short ", are described in writings dating from about 700 BC and were probably the precursors of the Pug breed. In the year 1 AD references existed in Chinese documents, the dog "Father", referring to a small dog, a short snout and legs. The Emperor Kang Hsi, in AD 950, produced a dictionary of all the Chinese characters, and it's two references that could describe the Pug: "dogs with short legs" and "a dog with a short head."

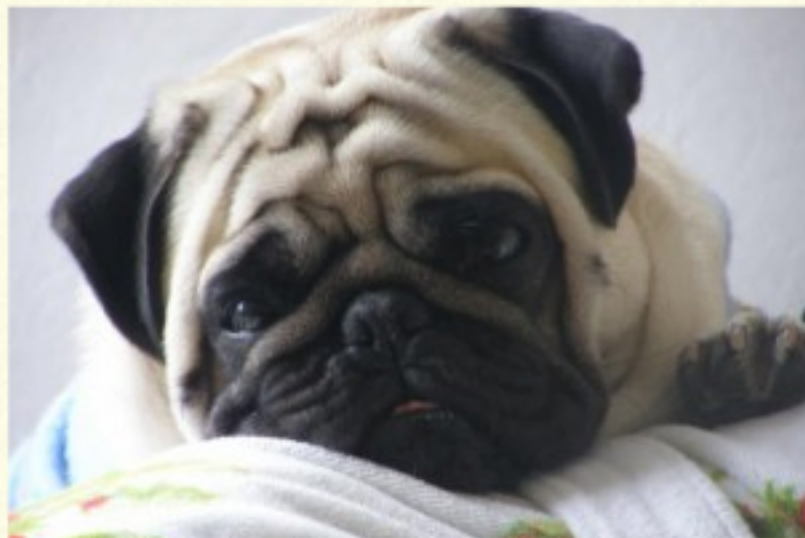

In the early twentieth century, was written a book called "Dogs of China and Japan." This book was based on the experience of Wang Hou Chun, an employee of the Imperial Palace, who created and worked with dogs emperor for seventy five years. He used the term to describe Lo-Sze Pug, noting that the differences between the Pug and Pekingese were the Pug always had short hair, and skin very loose elastic.

mini or mini Bullmastiffs Mastiffs, as may seem at first glance. Also bear no relation to the Shar-Pei. The closest race of a Pug is the Pekingese, which presents a common origin and history very similar.

The Pug breed is classified as "companion dog", being part of the group of dogs "Toys" or "the Company", the group 9. Pugs should weigh between 6.3 and 8.1 kg, dogs and heavy for their height. Your overall appearance should be square and massive, must show "Multum in parvo" (much substance in a small volume), what transpires in its compact form, with proportionality between the parties and firm muscles. Quite faithful to the owner, it is easily one inseparable companion. Actually, it follows you everywhere even uninvited. The Pug shows up extremely sociable and quickly fits and adapts to environments and strangers. It is considered one of the most docile breeds.

Another distinguishing feature is its bark: sound emitted, much like a snore, is apart by grunts as if the dog was choking. However, when you want to communicate with someone, the sound becomes more acute and long.

Strengths and weaknesses of Pugs

Strengths:

Strengths:

- They are very affectionate, but no symptoms of excessive grace.
- They are intelligent and playful.
- If along well with others.
- Small spending petshops.
- Latem very little.
- Do not need a lot of physical activity.
- If along well with other pets.
- They love to lap

Weaknesses:

- Those most at risk of hyperthermia, not get along with very high temperatures.
- Your eyes are very sensitive, being exposed and bulging.
- Cost expensive, between $ 1,000 and $ 3,000, depending on the strain.
- Has little stamina.
- They need special care with skin.

The French Bulldog is a breed that delights everyone, especially the fans of these puppies pug nose.

Country of origin: France

Year: circa 1800

Original Function: lap dog

Current Function: companion dog

Coat: Smooth, short, soft and shiny

Average Weight: 8kg to 14kg

Size: about 35cm

Life expectancy: 12 to 14 years

The temperament of the French Bulldog also gives a special tone to the breed, dogs are usually happy, calm, companions, playful and very smart. Like all breeds for companionship, they require, above all, constant contact with humans. Their exercise needs are minimal and vary from dog to dog.

Being a flat-faced breed, it is essential that owners understand that their future French Bulldogs should not live away from home. His breathing system comprometivo not regulate their temperatures allow efficiently. Always exercise care when your French Bulldog in heat. He preferred to choose a master, but is partying with everyone in the house. Discreet by nature, the French Bulldog bit late, and when it does, is husky and low.

The French Bulldog barks a lot?

Discreet by nature, the French Bulldog bit late, and when it does, is husky and low. Only manifests itself with barking when visitors arrive or before they escape from routine events. Nevertheless, hysteria is not him. Give your notice and then quiets down again. The neighborhood thanks.

Intelligence

He excels when it comes to associate cause and effect of events. You know the kind that when owners are output only to see them getting ready and recognizes that the time of the tour because someone took the leash. Also solve some problems on their own. The Bulldog is the 58th-ranked intelligence.

digite aqui

Health and Maintenance

The French Bul

• He must be always fresh and airy and can not under any circumstances get too hot. Heat exchange is made by dogs through salivation and the muzzle, and with dogs as "flat head" has a very short snout, become damaged in this regard. Learn all about brachycephalic dogs and learn to take care of your French Bulldog.

- They can have ear problems.
- They need little exercise. If you notice that your dog is tired, stop. A short walk of 15 minutes is enough to meet their needs.
- Most can not swim.

digite aqui

Fontes : www.tudosobrecachorros.com.br