

My favorite Dog Breeds

Por: Amanda e Paula

West Highland White Terrier

It originated in Great Britain.

When the West highland white Terrier puppy's born they are completely white with the exception of the muzzle who is black and paws who are pink.

In the old days they were used to hunt dangerous animals in the farms.

This dog does not like to be alone, however is very affectionate and loves children.

They are valued for their size and charm.

It is a medium sized dog, and requires daily physical exercise.

Physically they are dogs that can reach 28 cm and 10 kg. Their coat, white, shiny and requires moderate care, is the highlight of their physique. Small, their main health problems are skin allergies, which can affect their lungs and even change the tissue.

Chow chow

The chow chow puppies look's like teddy bears and sometimes they are a little bit aggressive.

Without much exuberance, he only obeys the commands of its owner.

In the old days he used to pull carts and their meat was a delicacy highly sought by emperors.

These dogs are stubborn and difficult for inexperienced owners.

This is a dog of medium size, about 50 cm tall on average, resembling a small lion.

Its distinguishing feature is to be one of the few dog breeds that have tongue black or bluish violet, also have a unique.

These dogs are loyal and independent, though a little reserved.

Poodles

Poodles are bright cheerful dogs that love children and hate to be left alone. Although the German claimed that the poodle originated from Germany, it was later recognized that they came from France. This breed was created to work on ships hunting the rats which explains their love for water. The poodle varies in size, it can be small like the toy poodle or it can be huge like the giant poodle. One of the main things that can affect a poodle's health are Addison's disease which affects their kidney, but if it is discovered early it can be treated with lifelong medication allowing the dog to live a normal life. Like their size they can have different fur colors but they are never spotted, they are always one color like white, brown, black and others.

Fontes
livro cães
<http://www.guiaderacas.com.br>
wikipédia
positivos móveis.

Amanda Jara nº1
Paula Onoyama nº36
7º ano D